Let's Start!

Writing Spot: Places to eat in the neighborhood. Where should we go?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people, their likes and dislikes, homes or countries in communicative situations.

Ask a partner:

- Where are the best places to go for dinner in your neighborhood?
- Are they cheap? Expensive?

Can Do Statements

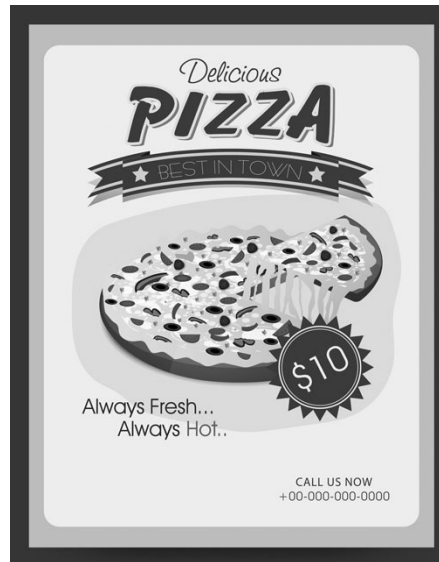

- I can use sounds to show that I am listening.
- I can write about restaurants and food using contractions.
- I can ask for things at a store.

Let's Explore!

Peter and Vanessa find a flyer for a new pizza place. Are there any deals?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: This pizza place looks great. The flyer says that it's the best place in town!
Vanessa: It's across the road from the park. It looks popular.
Peter: Your friend from out of town ... George right? He is coming next week?
Vanessa: Mmhm. Yes, and he loves pizza. We can go to dinner there.
Peter: Great idea. You can see what it is like.
Vanessa: Do you want to come with us?
Peter: Uh-huh, I'll bring John too!
Vanessa: Plus, they have a special package deal on Saturdays: 2 for 1 pizzas and free ice cream!
Peter: Good to know! Actually ... do you want to go in and check it out? I'm really hungry.
Clerk: Welcome to Pizzario. Can I take your order?
Peter: I'll have the special package deal. Vanessa, what are you having?
Vanessa: Two pizzas? Hmm. I'll have some of yours.

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Contractions

You often shorten words in English like he's instead of he is.

You often use contractions when you speak. You do not use contraction words a lot in writing.

You can use contractions in a friendly letter.

You do not use contractions in formal texts like business letter or essays, or exams.

Verb	Long Form	Contractions (Short Form)
to be	I am	I'm
to be	He/It/She is	He's/She's/It's
to be	You/They/We are	You're/They're/We're

Examples:

- It's across the road from the park. (It is)
- The flyer says they're the best place in town! (they are)
